Individual Residences Having Water Connectivity Issues

February 8, 2023 - Igaluit, Nunavut

The City has been receiving calls from some Iqaluit residents who are still having difficulty receiving piped water. All main City water mains have been cleared.

The most likely issue is with the connecting pipes between the homes and the water mains. Those connecting pipes are the responsibility of the landlord or homeowner.

If you live in a rental unit and still have no water, please contact your landlord to advise them of the issue so they can contact a local contractor to clear the line.

If you are a homeowner, and still have no water, you will need to contact a local contractor to clear the line. Homeowners can file a claim with the City for this process at https://www.iqaluit.ca/content/filing-claim.
