

Food Security Funding Program Application Form

The City of Iqaluit is currently accepting project applications for remaining Food Security Funding initiative, for fiscal year ending March 31st, 2022. The Food Security Fund supports projects up to $5,000.

- The Food Security initiative is meant to assist organizations and programs in addressing food security issues that have arisen, or are exacerbated as a result of the COVID-19 Pandemic.
- Applications will be reviewed in the order they are received, until the end of business on Wednesday September 15th 2021. Funding will be awarded on a priority scoring basis.
- Subject to the availability of funds, applicants may be awarded more than one grant
- Applicants must demonstrate how their project follows established nutrition guidelines; preference will be given to those projects that focus on whole, fresh foods, and/or country foods as part of a balanced approach to nutrition.
- Funding will be awarded only to organizations that are in good standing with Legal Registries, and the City of Iqaluit.
- All funds must be expended prior to March 31st, 2022.

The City of Iqaluit Community Funding Committee reviews and scores applications and makes recommendations for funding allocations to City Council. Council approval is required prior to the awarding of any funds.
